

Rada Wykonawcza

Opole, 2022-01-14

Simon Hodson, CODATA Executive Director

Polish universities and academic libraries are involved in many initiatives aimed at opening the results of scientific research as widely as possible, including research data. In recent months, teams and positions have been formed in many libraries to support research teams in creating Data Management Plans and preparing and sharing research data. The issues that the Research Data Alliance, CODATA and World Data System deals with, such as metadata standards, research data quality, FAIR Data or sharing Open Research Data, are significant for us and are more and more often part of our daily work.

We are pleased to support the Gdańsk University of Technology Library initiative of organizing the International Data Week in Krakow. The Gdańsk Tech Library is one of the most important participants in the creation of the data stewards community in Poland. It is willing to share with the local community its knowledge and experience gained through participation in international initiatives and projects (including RDA and GO-FAIR).

The possibility of Polish libraries employees' participation in such a significant and substantively rich event will undoubtedly increase and strengthen knowledge in the field of research data and the opportunity to involve more specialists and librarians from Poland in international initiatives.

Yours sincerely

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Danuta Szewczyk-Kłós', is written over a horizontal line.

Danuta Szewczyk-Kłós

Przewodnicząca

Rady Wykonawczej KDBASP

Rada Wykonawcza

Opole, 2022-01-14

Bonnie Carroll, Interim WDS Executive Director

Polish universities and academic libraries are involved in many initiatives aimed at opening the results of scientific research as widely as possible, including research data. In recent months, teams and positions have been formed in many libraries to support research teams in creating Data Management Plans and preparing and sharing research data. The issues that the Research Data Alliance, CODATA and World Data System deals with, such as metadata standards, research data quality, FAIR Data or sharing Open Research Data, are significant for us and are more and more often part of our daily work.

We are pleased to support the Gdańsk University of Technology Library initiative of organizing the International Data Week in Krakow. The Gdańsk Tech Library is one of the most important participants in the creation of the data stewards community in Poland. It is willing to share with the local community its knowledge and experience gained through participation in international initiatives and projects (including RDA and GO-FAIR).

The possibility of Polish libraries employees' participation in such a significant and substantively rich event will undoubtedly increase and strengthen knowledge in the field of research data and the opportunity to involve more specialists and librarians from Poland in international initiatives.

Yours sincerely

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Danuta Szewczyk-Kłos'.

Danuta Szewczyk-Kłos

Przewodnicząca

Rady Wykonawczej KDBASP

Rada Wykonawcza

Opole, 2022-01-14

Hilary Hanahoe, RDA Secretary General

Polish universities and academic libraries are involved in many initiatives aimed at opening the results of scientific research as widely as possible, including research data. In recent months, teams and positions have been formed in many libraries to support research teams in creating Data Management Plans and preparing and sharing research data. The issues that the Research Data Alliance, CODATA and World Data System deals with, such as metadata standards, research data quality, FAIR Data or sharing Open Research Data, are significant for us and are more and more often part of our daily work.

We are pleased to support the Gdańsk University of Technology Library initiative of organizing the International Data Week in Krakow. The Gdańsk Tech Library is one of the most important participants in the creation of the data stewards community in Poland. It is willing to share with the local community its knowledge and experience gained through participation in international initiatives and projects (including RDA and GO-FAIR).

The possibility of Polish libraries employees' participation in such a significant and substantively rich event will undoubtedly increase and strengthen knowledge in the field of research data and the opportunity to involve more specialists and librarians from Poland in international initiatives.

Yours sincerely

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'Danuta Szewczyk-Kłós', written over a horizontal line.

Danuta Szewczyk-Kłós

Przewodnicząca

Rady Wykonawczej KDBASP